Biography: Gabby Peyton is a food writer and historian. She is a trained Art Historian with an MA in Art History from the University of Toronto specializing in ancient architecture (and spent three summers working on an archaeological dig in central Turkey), in addition to a Bachelor of Journalism from King's College University and a BA in History from Memorial University of Newfoundland.

Gabby is the restaurant critic for The Telegram in St. John's, and writes a monthly food trends column for the Saltwire across Atlantic Canada. Her work on food culture and history has appeared in CBC, Eater, USA Today and Eaten Magazine, the world's first food history magazine. She has helped in recipe testing and writing for two cookbooks and is currently working on book about the history of Canadian restaurants set to be published by Penguin Random House in 2023.

Selected Publications: CBC, The Telegram, Eater, Atlantic Business Magazine, Atlantic Books, USA Today, The Huffington Post
